AFRICOLOGY®

Africology makes use of the healing essences from some of South Africa's indigenous plants, including Rooibos, Aloe Ferox, Marula and African Potato.

The active ingredients in Africology's skin care products are valuable in the repair process and assist with the restoration of damaged skin tissue. To maintain skin health & balance, they preserve the living essence of the plants naturally. They don't use parabens, propylene glycol, mineral oil, petrolatum, chemicals, or synthetically produced perfumes, which can harm the living essence of the skin. They allow nature to fragrance their products naturally and select active ingredients that bring balance and harmony to the skin.

Africology practises fair trade and shows great social responsibility, empowering the people of Africa through a variety of projects. They honour all living things and pledge to replace what is taken from the earth, thus showing gratitude to nature.

These beautifully formulated products have all been dermatologically tested to EU standards, are not tested on animals and do not use any animal products. Their wonderful aromas and therapeutic effects leave your skin and senses indulged.
